

We can help
if you think you are being discriminated against

If you think you are being discriminated against but aren't sure what to do, call us at the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission. Whether it is because of your pregnancy, breastfeeding, sex, status as a parent or carer, seeking flexible work arrangements or returning to work after maternity leave, discrimination is against the law.

We run an informal resolution service that is fair, free and flexible – we can help.
